STALINGRAD STILL IMPROVING—MOSCOW

FURIOUS BATTLES FOR STREETS AND HOUSES

FOR nearly 72 hours the Russian position at Stalingrad has maintained a perceptible improvement, with the Red Army, both inside and outside the city, registering more tactical gains than losses. The garrison withstanding the main German assault in the bitter battle for the factory belt comprising the northern suburbs has again beaten off German blows.

In one sector, Moscow's communiqué reported shortly before midnight, no less than six attacks with infantry and tanks came to grief against the Russian defences. This morning—the 45th of the siege—finds the defenders back in possession of the north-western workers' settlement, into which the Germans drove a dangerous wedge some days ago, and exacting between two and three thousand casualties every day. Outside the city Marshal Timoshenko's two relief armies—one pressing down from the north into the neck of the Don-Volga "egg-cup" and the other hitting from the south-west, in the area of Krasnoarmeisk, 15 miles from Stalingrad—are gaining momentum.—(Press Association.)

MOSCOW, Sunday.—Reuter's Correspondent here states:—"After strenuous fighting Soviet troops have recaptured part of the workers' settlement on the outskirts of Stalingrad, which was taken by the Germans two or three days ago, the Soviet News Agency stated to-day. South-west of Stalingrad, where the Soviet troops have succeeded in advancing on a comparatively wide sector, the Germans launched repeated counter-attacks, but after losing some dozens of tanks were forced to retreat. Further south Soviet units have recaptured positions lost by them on the previous day. Severe losses were inflicted on the enemy, who abandoned field guns and other war material. The Germans at Stalingrad are so short of reserves owing to the limited scope of their land and air transport, the Soviet Agency says, that they are sending into the fighting such specialised units as engineers and pontoon crews.

"North-west of Stalingrad Marshal Timoshenko's relief troops have approached two hundred yards nearer the city in one sector in the past twenty-four hours. After many days of the fiercest hammering, Soviet troops took the first line of German trenches, killing 1,000 of the enemy and destroying twenty-three tanks.

Moscow radio, in a broadcast addressed to the Red Army to-night, called on the defenders of Stalingrad to beat off the enemy, as the fate of the Soviet Union and of all the Soviet peoples was being decided in the battle now taking place.

"In the Mozdok area, in the central Caucasus, severe fighting is going on in a mountain gorge, where the German Command concentrated four divisions with huge artillery and tank support. Ten German attacks during the day and one night attack were all repulsed.

"A big German attack on one sector of Voronezh front was repelled by Soviet infantry and mortars, and in another sector Soviet troops encircled an enemy formation which had penetrated to the eastern bank of the river and hurled the Germans into the river, killing 400 of them."

GERMAN CLAIMS

LONDON, Sunday — To-day's German communiqué said:—"In the north-west Caucasus several forest positions and firing points were taken in the face of stubborn enemy resistance. The Luftwaffe, operating ahead of the German spearhead, bombed enemy columns and troop concentrations. South of the Terek the fortified and stubbornly defended towns of Elch, Tovo and Werchniykurp were taken by storm.

"In the northern town area of Stalingrad the enemy was driven from more fortified blocks of houses and built-up positions. Strong close-range fighter formations and A.A. batteries of the Luftwaffe supported the army. Other air formations continued the pounding of Soviet rear supply lines. A large number of enemy transport trains were destroyed and a motor vessel on the Volga was sunk.

The Berlin military spokesman said to-night that the extensive tractor factory and other workshops in Stalingrad have been turned into fortresses. Following the Luftwaffe's destruction of three A.-A. batteries and two ground emplacements, German infantry were able to capture several blocks of houses.

MARSHAL HONOURED

BERNE, Sunday. — The Swiss Telegraph Agency, in a despatch from Moscow to-day, said that Marshal Shaposhnikov had been appointed Defence Commissioner and C.-in-C. of the Soviet forces—posts formerly held by M. Stalin. Shaposhnikov was also given a seat on the Central Committee of the Communist Party, the message said. M. Stalin's resignation as Commander-in-Chief had previously been alleged in German wireless reports from Ankara and by the Rome Radio in an English broadcast.—(The Associated Press.)

SOVIET COMMUNIQUE

MOSCOW, Sunday.—To-night's Soviet communiqué states:—"During October 4 our troops fought the enemy in the areas of Stalingrad and Mozdok. During the week ending October 4, 257 German aircraft were destroyed. Our losses during the same period were 137 aircraft.

"In Stalingrad area fierce fighting continues. Germans launched incessant tank and infantry attacks. A Soviet unit was attacked six times by two battalions of infantry, supported by tanks. All six attacks were repulsed, and 200 Germans killed.

"North-west of Stalingrad our troops in one sector conducted active operations.

"In Mozdok area fighting continues in one inhabited locality. On one sector two enemy companies were annihilated."

"In the area of Voronezh our infantry and tanks broke into the enemy positions and captured defence positions. As a result of the fighting 1,800 enemy officers and men were killed in one day. Booty was captured and prisoners were taken."

WORKERS FOR GERMANY

LONDON, Sunday.—Vichy radio stated to-night that M. Bichelonne, French Secretary of State for Industrial Production, said to-day that it had been agreed between France and Germany in June that 150,000 specialised workers were to be sent to Germany in exchange for 50,000 repatriated prisoners. Since Sept. 1 17,000 specialised workers had left for Germany, and 133,000 more had to be found. Recruiting must take place in all classes of industry in the percentage of one foreman to 500 workers and one engineer to 50 workers. Men over 50 and boys under 18 would be exempt. Women between 21 and 35 would be conscripted, but parents of three living children would be exempted.—(The A.P.)

BRITAIN'S WAR PRODUCTION

RECORD PER HEAD

LORD HALIFAX (British Ambassador) told Americans on Saturday that Germany could "hardly maintain both her military and industrial efforts at their present pitch" in a spring campaign in 1943.

"The race is still on, and the finish a long way off, but Germany has lost her start," he added, when addressing the Foreign Policy Association, stated a Reuter despatch from New York.

British war production per head of the population, he said, is "greater than that of any nation on earth." Britain, with a population of 47 millions, was producing as many 'planes as Germany with a population of 80 millions. In 18 months, he added, we had multiplied our output of tanks by three. We had built and repaired 30 per cent. more shipping than in the corresponding period of the last war, although we had 100,000 fewer shipyard workers.

Praising British moral, which carried the nation through 1940, Lord Halifax said that he remembered "how we watched on the map the passage of precious shiploads of rifles across the Atlantic. . . How they were torn out of the holds of the ships, how they were rushed to waiting empty-handed soldiers. Productive power, communications and moral," he said, "are the raw materials of victory, and the greatest of these is moral."

The air raids over North-Western Europe, he said, were blows at one of Germany's weakest spots—communications.—(Reuter.)

NEW GUINEA BATTLES

LONDON, Sunday.—A communiqué from Allied Headquarters, South-Western Pacific, states: "Solomons: In a dawn attack a formation of Allied torpedo 'planes surprised an enemy naval force at anchor in the harbour. Three light cruisers and two medium merchantmen are believed to have been hit by torpedoes.

Allied medium bombers scored three direct hits with heavy bombs on Wairopi Bridge and destroyed the partially repaired eastern end. Allied attack 'planes, co-operating with the advancing ground units, bombed enemy areas north of Efogi and in the vicinity of Mylolo Lakes. At Mubo our ground forces executed a surprise raid against the enemy, inflicting at least 25 casualties.—(Reuter.)

M. STALIN'S VIEW OF SECOND FRONT

CALL TO ALLIES TO MEET OBLIGATIONS

MOSCOW, Sunday.—M. Stalin, replying to an American newspaper correspondent here, said that the question of a second front occupies for Russia a place of first-rate importance, and called on the Allies "to fulfil their obligations fully and on time."

The text of M. Stalin's letter contains the following:—

"What place does the possibility of a second front occupy in Soviet estimates of the current situation? Answer—A very important place. One might say a place of the first importance.

"LITTLE EFFECT"

"To what extent is Allied aid to the Soviet Union proving effective and what could be done to amplify and improve this aid? Answer—As compared with the aid which the Soviet Union is giving to the Allies by drawing upon itself the main forces of the German Fascist armies, the aid of the Allies to the Soviet Union has so far been of little effect. In order to amplify and improve this aid only one thing is required—that the Allies fulfil their obligations fully and on time.

"What remains of the Soviet capacity for resistance? Answer—I think that the Soviet capacity of resisting the German brigands is in strength not less, if not greater, than the capacity of Fascist Germany, or of any other aggressive Power to secure for itself world domination."—(A.P.)

Moscow Radio last night broadcast those questions and answers in full in its home service.—(Reuter.)

DAKAR SECOND FRONT?

BERNE, Sunday. — The French Government have considerably reinforced Dakar following speculation as to whether the Allied second front would open there, said a despatch to the Geneva Courrier. It was assumed that this included land and naval forces. Newspapers in the occupied zone devoted articles to the menace against Dakar, and Audjourd Hui stated that M. Laval was determined to oppose any Dakar adventure, that the defences were superior to those of Madagascar, and "the activity of German submarines will provide sizeable aid to our forces."

The Paris Press stated that important Allied troop disembarkations in the Belgian Congo and British Nigeria tended to demonstrate a forthcoming Dakar offensive. It also referred to rumours of Brazilian forces training for the job.—(The A.P.)

TO KEEP DOWN FOOD BILL

WASHINGTON, Sunday.—Swift action by President Roosevelt followed Congress's passing of the Anti-Inflation Bill, the White House announcing yesterday the appointment of Mr. James F. Byrnes as Director of Economic Stabilisation, and the issuing of an Order stabilising farm prices and wages throughout the nation. Instructions have been given for the fixing of "ceilings" for rent and all agricultural commodities. The effect of these moves, the President said, is to stabilise ninety per cent. of the country's food bill.—(Reuter.)

SHIPPING AND CONVOYS

By Our Military Correspondent.

ON September 25th, the United States Maritime Commission reported that during the preceding twelve months some 488 ships had been built in American yards. To these must be added a certain number of launchings from British and other yards—so that, altogether, the output of mercantile shipping is very remarkable at the present time. There is, however, another side to this question, which puts a rather different complexion on it—i.e., the corresponding sinkings, which figure in the opposite scale of the balance. Unlike the building figures, those of the sinkings are not "official" in the strict sense—for obvious reasons. They are, however, "founded on fact," so to speak, and we can quite warrantably take them as a basis on which to estimate the situation.

On September 9th it was stated that—as from December 7th, when the U.S.A. became at war—some 460 ships had been sunk in the Western Atlantic—i.e., 460 ships sunk in nine months, as against 488 launched within twelve. To this figure must be added sinkings over the same period in other waters—Arctic, Mediterranean, Indian Ocean, etc. These would serve to counterbalance what could be described as "non-American construction" during the period under review. We may say, then, one way with another, that during the past year buildings and sinkings have approximately cancelled each other out, taking the war as a whole. In other words, as much shipping is available for Allied use now as there was a year ago.

NEW OPERATIONS

But during the same period of time the Allied requirements in shipping have grown very considerably. This has followed as a consequence of the defeats in the Near East and the Far East alike. Not merely must men and material be forwarded direct to the several theatres of operations on an increased scale; but quite new operations have to be undertaken. The result of all this has been to impose a greatly intensified strain on the maritime resources of the Allies—including merchantmen, warships and naval aircraft.

This, in turn, has compelled the Allies to develop the manipulation of their convoys to the maximum efficiency. As far as can be gathered, the two most recent convoys—one to Arctic Russia and the other to Malta—have been, if not quite the biggest, certainly among the biggest that have been escorted across the sea. Moreover, both these were forced through the Axis blockading cordons and concentrations; there was not, on either occasion, any question of slipping past. This new policy may well have a big influence on the course of the war—despite the fact that it was adopted at the point of the torpedo, rather than willingly.

In this convoy fighting the essential matter is to get the bulk of the convoy through to its destination. From the defender's standpoint the aim is to drive back or break up the convoy—or, failing that, to inflict maximum losses on it. Evidently, in such combats, it is necessary to calculate the losses of both sides—without that no real balance of success or failure can be established. In the case of each of these two particular convoys the bulk of the supplies, it was stated, got through. Regarding the Malta one, Mr. Churchill described it as "sufficient to ensure the life and resistance of that heroic island fortress for a good many months to come." The price paid was four warships and eight aircraft, against which must be set 56 Axis aircraft shot down in the course of the fighting. The escort was very formidable—since battleships might be met with. It included four aircraft-carriers, of which one was sunk by a submarine as the curtain-raiser of the attack.

ATTACKS

Much the same thing characterised the Arctic convoy. According to Mr. Eden, it carried "the largest total of munitions yet transported in a single voyage." According to the German account, there were 45 merchant ships in this convoy, while the escort and cover amounted to some 70 odd men-of-war. The British claim 40 of the attacking aircraft and two of the submarines. Their losses on this occasion were entirely confined to the merchantmen.

There was this further in common about the two long drawn-out actions—the absence of surface ships from the side of the assailants. This was total in the case of the northern convoy; but in the other case motor torpedo boats intervened at one stage—in the narrows off Cape Bon. This lack of support by surface craft—even of the light varieties—constitutes a serious weakness in the attack on any convoy. Surface backing must be made forthcoming if the convoys are to be really broken up. And unless and until they are broken up delivery of the goods—or of the bulk of them—will continue.

FORD'S PEACE HOPES

DEARBORN, MICHIGAN, Sunday.—Henry Ford, 79 years old motor millionaire, told a Reuter correspondent here to-day:—"People have always thought too much about war and not enough about peace. It has generally been the case that when the victor imposes his will on the vanquished and grabs the spoils, the loser nurses resentment and waits for a chance to get his own back. We must have a different kind of peace this time. It must be founded on education and experience, which are the only good to come out of this kind of evil. We must educate people. We must learn to think.

MADAGASCAR ADVANCE

LONDON, Sunday.—The British occupation of Antsirabe, some sixty miles south-west of the capital of Madagascar, announced to-day by the French Command, is denied by the French Government, whose latest communiqué says that British troops are only advancing very slowly towards the south. "The lively resistance which they met at Sambaina slowed down their advance on Antsirabe."—(Reuter.)

"GERMANY'S FOOD IS SECURE"

MARSHAL GOERING ON R.A.F. RAIDS

LONDON, Sunday. — Field-Marshal Goering, speaking at a harvest thanksgiving meeting in Berlin to-day, announced that the meat and fat ration had been increased, and said: "To-day for us blockade is impossible. If there is going to be a blockade it is not us who will be affected, but the British.

"Most of the talk about the seriousness of the food situation in the occupied territories is just propaganda. I am firmly resolved that, while I do not want to see the populations of the occupied territories suffer, if through enemy measures privation is unavoidable, it will in no circumstances affect Germany. The German workers and the German agricultural labourer will be fed better than any others.

"We have passed the time of greatest difficulty. As far as our food situation is concerned, from to-day onwards it will become steadily better. The Russians have burnt everything, but it is the best part of the country that we have taken from them. The dreadful narrowness of our living space had become intolerable. We thank the Lord Almighty and our Fuehrer that our fetters were broken and that vast spaces have been opened for the German people. We need raw materials as well as foodstuffs. The two most important are coal and iron, of which we have not enough at home. But it so happens that both food and raw materials were lying together in the territory we have taken from the Bolsheviks.

'FOOD PARCELS

He announced the distribution of "Fuhrer's food parcels," to be handed to every German soldier on crossing the frontier to go on leave. "But this parcel is not for the German soldier himself. He does not need it. It is meant for the people at home to celebrate the soldiers' homecoming." This year's home potato crop and harvest is the best and largest ever gathered in Germany.

Of air attacks in Germany, Field-Marshal Goering said: "I shall make every human effort to ease the sufferings of the people in raided territories, and to prevent air raids, firstly, by active defence, but nobody should forget that the Luftwaffe is concentrated in the East, and that we cannot at the moment reply with the same vigour as we should like, although the enemy is already paying very dearly for his attacks. If Churchill says he will make 1,000-bomber raids with ease, I should like to say that, so far, no 1,000-bomber raid has been made, and that the British have already paid so dearly that they have considerably restricted the number of their raiding bombers.

"It is terrible for me that I cannot retaliate with the same strength every time there is a British raid, though I command an air force which is larger and better. Our enemies would like us to split it up, but they will not deter us from our strategy. It is hard for the German people to hold out; but they know they are helping to hold one front. When the Luftwaffe has finished its present job we shall 'meet again at Philippi'."

OPINION OF U.S.

Of the United States, he said: "The facade of that country is decorated and glittering, but if you look behind it you will see it's on the verge of breaking down. This Mr. Roosevelt knows himself. I am the last to under-rate American rearmament. Technically the Americans have done colossal things. They have done quite a lot in regard to motor cars, radio and razor blades, but that is not enough for rearmament programmes. In America rearmament will not be quicker than in Germany, but slower. In bluff Americans, from the President down to the last nigger, are unsurpassed. The Americans are probably quite gallant soldiers, but so far their ambitions have been on other fields."

In conclusion, he said:—"Now once again we shall have to face a Russian winter. This winter will also not be easy, but it cannot be compared with the last, and we have prepared for it. To-day the Fuhrer and I have to give out laws and orders which are hard and severe, but they are necessary. It is easier for me to stand on the most dangerous battlefields than to bear the whole responsibility. The sorrows which haunt me give me no peace, not even at night. . . . You have read what would happen to our children, men and women if we lost this war. You, German people, would be destroyed, and the Jews would take their revenge. It would be a crime to be a defeatist to-day, when our soldiers are gaining victory after victory."—(Reuter.)

GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK

WASHINGTON, Sunday.—President Roosevelt announced to-day that of the three men in the race for the Governorship of New York, he would vote for Mr. John Bennett, New York Attorney-General (Democratic candidate), "because I believe he is the best qualified."

The President previously endorsed Mr. James Mead's Democratic nomination for the Governorship, but Mead was defeated by Bennett.—(Reuter.)

FILLING NORTHERN SEATS

The suggestion that all seats which become vacant in the Northern Ireland House of Commons should be filled within a reasonable time will be made at the next sitting by Alderman H. Midgley. The present system is that the writ for a by-election is moved by a member of the party formerly holding the seat. The Mid-Derry seat has been vacant for about two years, since the death of Mr. G. Leeke, Nationalist.

MURDER MAY GO UNPUNISHED

IT is possible to commit murder in Ireland and to escape punishment. This was the answer which Mr. C. W. Guest, P.C., for many years managing director of one of Ireland's largest insurance companies, gave to an Irish Times reporter who consulted him yesterday about the possible outcome of the manner in which death certificates are issued at present in this country, criticised in this newspaper on Friday.

Not alone can a person be killed wilfully by another person, but, according to Mr. Guest, the system is such that certificates of death can be issued by registrars while the person is still living, and thus enable his "dependents" to collect the insurance money under false pretences. Mr. Guest met several cases in which this happened, and in many of them the criminals had served terms of imprisonment.

AMERICAN WAY

Ireland, he says, has one of the weakest forms of registration in Europe—in the world, in fact—30 or 40 per cent. of deaths not being certified. In America it is necessary to state on the certificate the colour and race, the sex, the date of birth, occupation, where the deceased was born, the names of his father and mother, and where they were born. The day and the hour must be certified, the burial place must be given, the date of burial, and the name of the undertaker. The doctor, in addition, must give a full description of how the patient died, and must sign the death certificate. No certificate will be issued unless the body was seen by a doctor, who certified it as dead. In Ireland it is possible to obtain a certificate without a doctor by simply adding the words "no medical attendant" to it. In some cases, too, it has been known for a doctor to certify death without actually having seen the body. He had known that the person was ill, and, when told by someone he knew that the death had taken place he had asked no questions.

Mr. Guest believes that many hundred death certificates are irregular. He suggests that an inquest should be held on all cases in which it is stated by those looking for a certificate that there was "no medical attendant." When he wrote some years ago to the Chief Registrar of Deaths, pointing out the flaws in the system he got a reply which suggested that he was making some accusation against the medical profession. During the debates in the Dail on the Insurance Act the matter arose, and it was promised that some action would be taken to close the loopholes.

The border districts are the worst, Mr. Guest believes. At one time there were five or six people walking around Clones for whose deaths Dublin insurance companies had paid relatives. In one case the age of a man was given as actually younger than his own son.

IRISH CLOTHING INDUSTRY

WAR REACTIONS

WITHIN the limits of clothes rationing what variety do you expect next year in your purchases of hosiery, shirting, frocks, overalls, suits and suit materials? To answer this question an Irish Times reporter yesterday undertook a survey of different sections of the clothing industry.

It appears that many sections of this industry which had maintained production well in 1941, despite many difficulties, took a turn for the worse in August. This applies especially to those sections which use artificial silk yarns and such fabrics as spun rayon. On the other hand, the Irish woollen industry continues to obtain successes in its struggle to overcome its difficulties.

HOSIERY

The hosiery industry has been affected by the virtual disappearance of silk, angora and botany yarns and the fall of the cotton yarns to less than 15 per cent. of our normal supplies. This has been offset, however, by the increased spinning of woollen and worsted yarns in Irish factories from native wool. The position about artificial silk yarns changed for the worse in July, when supplies, which had up to that time been plentiful, suddenly stopped. They have not since been resumed, nor is it known when they will be resumed.

FROCKS AND SHIRTS

The first seven months of this year witnessed imported large supplies of the new spun rayon fabric, in which the designs are now so cleverly done that it takes a skilled eye to distinguish them from cotton or woollen goods. It is reckoned that up to the end of July the imports of spun rayon fabrics were about five times greater than they had been in the corresponding months of 1939.

Sizeable quantities of made-up shirts, dresses and clothing of other kinds also came in during the first months of the year as a result of the reduction of import duties. The imposition of control by the British authorities has stopped this plentiful supply. In particular, coarse working shirts and cotton stockings are likely to be very scarce.

Generally it can be said that for the present the supply of articles of clothing made from cotton and artificial silk is not likely to be more than about 15 per cent. of normal requirements, together with production derived from reserves.

DYES AND WOOL OIL

Small but important accessories in the clothing industries are supplies of dyes and of wool oil. Dyes requiring the use of bichromates are scarce, as chromium is much used in armament steel. There is a fair supply of non-bichromate dyes, some having been imported recently from Switzerland, via Lisbon. An emulsion with carrageen as base has made up some of our deficiency of wool oil.

An example of how well the Irish clothing industry has maintained production until recently despite great difficulties is given in the last published production figures for the hosiery industry, which showed that the net output for 1941 was value £801,637, as against £713,628 in 1940.

Mrs. Elizabeth Anne Smylie (widow), Castlereavey, 13 Adelaide Park, Belfast, who died 11th March, 1942, left £12,582 in Great Britain and Eire.

STRAWS IN THE WIND

GENERAL ELECTION ON THE HORIZON?

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

RECENT events, beliefing an almost unnatural quiet in the political camps, have given rise to speculation in party circles whether Dail Eireann, when it meets next week, will be assembling for the final session in the life of the present Parliament.

With the Labour Party openly aspiring to expansion following its unexpected successes in the local elections; a member of the Government party publicly expressing grave doubts about the likelihood, in the absence of agreement, of legislation to prolong the life of the Parliament; the Fine Gael leader, Mr. W. Cosgrave, making a distinctly pre-election speech, garnished with an interesting proposition to the agricultural community, and the Minister for Education, Mr. T. Derrig, in a speech which dealt with the Government's record in education, announcing the post-war spending of five millions for the educational benefit of Irish youth, a general election before next June, when the term of the present Government will end, is regarded as being virtually inevitable. Another significant pre-election subject that is, and probably will remain, in the news is the attitude of the Government towards a scheme of family allowances in this country.

Coming almost day after day within the last week, these events suggest that the election is at least on the horizon, but party organisation machines have shown little life owing to the belief that scarcity of transport and light will deter consideration of a dissolution during the winter. On the other hand, the farming community, to whom very much attention again will be paid by Fine Gael, will experience a very busy time in the spring, in view of increased tillage demands, and for them, even May and June next year will be a relatively busy period. A general election in January would not be unprecedented.

Neutrality and the continuance of it would play a large part in what would be, even if the general situation had not worsened by the end of the year, the most critical election the nation ever faced; for in political circles the belief is held that the Proportional Representation system threatens to exercise such an influence on the issue that there would be a grave danger of inability on the part of any party to form a Government. In such an event, a coalition Government would be the only solution.

BIG AIR OFFENSIVE

160 MILE FRONT

Four hundred Allied fighters and a big force of bombers, including United States Flying Fortresses, carried out on Friday last the greatest daylight air offensive in recent weeks on German-occupied territory, says the Press Association. Six fighters (one pilot safe) were lost, while eighteen German 'planes were destroyed.

The bombers attacked targets in Northern France on a 160-mile coast front stretching from Le Havre to Nieuport, near Ostend, and penetrated fifty miles inland. The docks at Le Havre, the former Potez airframe factory at Meaulte, and the German fighter base at St. Omer-Longueness Aerodrome were among the objectives.

On Friday night a big force of bombers attacked objectives in the Rhineland, and many fires were left burning, the British Air Ministry stated. Seven bombers are missing.

THREE WORKMEN KILLED

Three men were killed and twenty injured when a lorry carrying workmen overturned on Saturday on the Upper Greenisland road, ten miles from Belfast. An eye-witness said that he heard the lorry's brakes screaming and then saw it overturn, throwing the men in all directions. It appeared to turn over twice before righting itself. Several doctors were called, and twelve men were taken to the Mater Hospital, Belfast, where seven are still detained.

Desmond Allen, Sullatober, Co. Antrim, and Thomas Skelton, Eden, Carrickfergus, were killed outright, and William Crymbie, Carrickfergus, died in the hospital. Most of the men belonged to Carrickfergus, but Thomas Maginn (20) is described of Dublin.

MARSHAL ROMMEL'S VIEWS

Marshal Rommel told journalists in Berlin on Saturday that the English were fair fighters in general, but he complained bitterly of "a large number of foreign troops, such as Maoris, head-hunters and natives."

"What we have we hold," he boasted when speaking of the Axis positions in Egypt. Marshal Rommel said that the first American tanks the Axis forces encountered in the Western Desert were "badly built, badly armour-plated, and proved worthless," but said that the new American tanks were a much better weapon.—(Reuter.)

CONDENSED MILK EXPORTS

Exports of condensed milk from Eire to Britain are being discussed at a conference in Wales, between representatives of the Department of Agriculture and the British Ministry of Food.

LICENSED TRADE HOURS

Dublin publicans will, on Wednesday next, ask the Minister for Justice to alter the opening hours of Dublin public-houses by the addition of one hour to opening and closing times, making the hours 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., with a dinner hour from 2-3 p.m., instead of 2.30-3.30 p.m. The manner in which it is proposed to license aerodromes was opposed by the meeting.

TEN KILLED IN CRASH

NEW YORK, Sunday—Ten people were killed in a 'plane crash at Botwood, Newfoundland, yesterday. There were 37 persons aboard.—Reuter.

The list of dead and injured did not include any British passengers, and all the names published carried United States addresses. Mr. Richard W. Sidenberg, Army Courier of the United States Embassy in London, was among the passengers.—(Reuter.)

5 MILLIONS FOR SCHOOL BUILDING

A POST-WAR school construction programme, to cost about £5,000,000, was announced by the Minister for Education, Mr. Derrig, at the opening of new elementary schools at Whitehall, Dublin, yesterday.

Plans are being made, he said, for proceeding, immediately conditions permit, with schemes which could not be carried out because of emergency conditions. A very big annual building programme would be required over a period of, say, ten to fifteen years to complete the replacement of schools, and to bring school buildings generally up to a suitable standard.

FARM POLICY

MR. W. T. COSGRAVE, T.D., outlined Fine Gael policy in Cork on Saturday last when he addressed delegates to a Fine Gael convention. "Seeing that agriculture is the primary industry, out of which we all live directly or indirectly," he said, "the problem of exhausted land and the crippled farmers must be the first national task. Fine Gael proposed to make loans available for farmers up to amounts of five years' annuities, completely free of interest, and repayable over a lengthy period by adding the repayment to the annuities. I consider such a scheme not only a necessity, but a sound investment. These interest-free loans to farmers will cost the State half a million pounds per annum, which should be found by obvious economies through a sound and competent administration. It is obvious to everyone that the Fianna Fail Government is a broken force, broken more from its incompetence than through attacks by its opponents. A new Government must repair the damage done in ten disastrous years." Mr. Cosgrave said that the Executive of Fine Gael had under consideration the details of national policy.

The most important matter for the country was the reconditioning of agriculture. Manures were never necessary, and not only should they be provided, but a scheme must be devised which would put them on every farm.

A NATIONAL NEED

"That," Mr. Cosgrave declared, "is a national need, more particularly for those farms whose fertility has been reduced by tillage." Plans were under consideration for financing the cost, so that every field in the country would come back to its productivity. Next in importance was the necessity for bringing agricultural production to its full capacity. Butter, eggs and pigs had been the mainstay of agriculture after cattle. Dairying required assistance just now and for the period after the war.

Pending the post-war conditions, subsidies would be needed, and would be provided, so that the industry would emerge from the war in a healthy and capable condition of being useful to the State. It was now being considered what could be provided to reduce the rates on agricultural land. A scheme of family allowances was also under consideration, and, Mr. Cosgrave added, a more detailed pronouncement on this subject would be forthcoming as soon as the details had been settled.

Dr. T. F. O'Higgins, T.D., said that the consumers had been persistently exploited by the present Government. The case of the family man and the unfortunate housewife could be and must be met, he said, by a national scheme of family allowances.

Senator James Crosbie presided.

DIFFICULTY

The total expenditure since 1932 on school buildings was £2,500,000, of which £200,000 was during the financial year 1941-42. This work included the erection of 374 new schools. There was now serious difficulty in securing the building materials, and the present programme would have to be slowed down considerably. Unless there was some improvement in supplies, he was afraid that they should have to confine themselves for the remainder of the emergency period to carrying out necessary repairs. In the meantime every possible effort should be made to maintain existing buildings in the best possible conditions. School accommodation, he pointed out, was required in connection with Dublin Corporation housing schemes in other areas, including Cabra West, North Crumlin, Rialto-Dolphin's Barn. In spite of difficulties about materials, he hoped that they would be able to proceed with the erection of a new school in Cabra West for 600 boys, and one for 1,200 girls and infants. Work was proceeding on these two schools, and he hoped that they would be completed by next May. The North Crumlin grants had been sanctioned for the erection of new schools for 992 boys and 2,000 girls and infants.

FINE WORK

The new schools at Larkhill, Whitehall, and called the Schools of the Holy Child, have been built at a cost of £115,000, of which the greater part has been provided by the Ministry of Education. Giving these and other details of the schools, the Parish Priest, Very Rev. J. Canon Dwyer, said that the schools followed on the Corporation scheme for building 1,000 houses in that district. They consisted of three blocks, one with accommodation for 720 girls and infants, one with accommodation for 832 boys and an assembly hall. They had been opened for enrolments on July 1 last; but the maximum numbers had not yet been reached because of the stoppage of house-building. The girls' and infants' schools had been placed under the Community of the Holy Faith, and the boys' school was under Mr. Cooper, who for twelve years had been principal of the Sacred Heart School. Glasnevin, and had twice won the Carlisle and Blake premiums.

The Rev. Mgr. Boylan, P.P., V.G., Dun Laoghaire, who blessed the schools, said that he thought the building of such excellent schools simultaneously with the building of such a fine church as the parish's new Church of Corpus Christi was an achievement without parallel in the history of the Dublin parishes.

Ald. Byrne, T.D., and Ald. Martin O'Sullivan were present.

Outsider Wins Irish Cambridgeshire

A WELL-FRAMED handicap for the Irish Cambridgeshire provided the big crowd at the Curragh on Saturday with a thrilling race, which was won by Mr. F. S. Myerscough's King Kling, a rank outsider about whose chance some people had secured odds of 100 to 1. The joint favourites, So Lovely and Grand Inquisitor, disappointed badly, and it was Lord Glentoran's Dunseverick that offered stoutest opposition to the winner. Dunseverick just failed to stay out the testing mile and was beaten by three parts of a length, Astrologer finishing third, half a length away. A three years old son of King Salmon and Inkling, King Kling was bred by Lieut.-Col. Shirley, and an own brother of his was sold at last week's yearling sales for a paltry 36 guinees the lowest price paid for any of Lieut.-Col. Shirley's draft.

It was an afternoon of close finishes, and wound up with a dead heat between Bray View and Ellen's Pet in the Connyngham Handicap, in which China Tealeaf was only beaten by a short head into third place. Mr. Myerscough also won the Royal Whip with Anniversary, who stayed on just long enough to oust the outsider, Sword Knot, and win by a neck. M. Wing, rider of this winner, was again on the right side of another close finish when Brehon Law beat Fourth Choice by a short head in the Juvenile Plate. Joe Canty also scored a double event, steering home the wayward Cara Koosh at the head of the field in the Mountjoy Plate and winning the National Produce Stakes on Clodagh Rose. The lightly weighted Red Strife always had the measure of her seven rivals in the Loughbrown Plate. Details:

12 Goals at Milltown

SHAMROCK R.... 5 DRUMCONDRA 7

EVERYONE at Milltown yesterday—except the supporters of Shamrock Rovers—received excellent value for their money; a few more such games would help to stimulate the waning interest in local soccer. Six goals were scored in each half. With nine minutes to go the Rovers, after being two goals behind at the interval, and in a worse plight after fifteen minutes of the second half, required only one goal to make it six-all; but a penalty scored by O'Rourke eight minutes from the end put paid to the account of the Rovers. The rapid scoring in the second half roused the excitement to fever heat. The goals came in 14, 28, 31, 32, 36 and 37 minutes; nothing like it has been seen in the Shield since its inception. Drumcondra's inspiring moments came immediately the ball was kicked off. Scarcely a Rover had touched it when McNamara had it in the net, and thereafter the Tolka Park team never lost their grip of the game. Leading the visitors' forwards with speed, skill and precision, McNamara had a great match, scoring three goals. Dyer, on his left, also was brilliant, and helped himself to a couple, while his partner, Ward, and O'Rourke (penalty) got the others. Lanigan (reserve outside right), Coad, Bryson 2 (one penalty), and Comerford were the Rovers' marksmen.

The main factors in Drumcondra's remarkable victory were their speed and cleverness from full-back to centre forward. There was not a weak link anywhere. It was a pity Clarke and Daly did not come into the scoring, as their displays also were excellent.

Rovers' defence was unsteady all through, but Bryson, at centre-half, saved many an ugly situation. The attack lacked vim and polish. Westby made a bad job of it at centre forward, and missed more than one rosy opportunity of scoring.

DRAW AT DUNDALK

DUNDALK ..... 1 CORK 1

Weakness by Dundalk's inside forwards lost the side a point at Oriel Park yesterday, when Cork United drew with them. McArdle scored for Dundalk and McCarthy for Cork. Dundalk re-arranged their forward line, as Wickham, who was selected as centre-forward, did not attend; McArdle went as leader, and Harvey was inside right. Dundalk did most of the attacking in both halves, but all the inside forwards persisted in close passing, and Hayes and Duff foiled them time and again. Foley was a great goalkeeper, especially in the first ten minutes, when he got most to do. Cork were lucky early on, when a defender handled a "header" by McDonald, and the referee refused Dundalk's insistent claim for a penalty. Cork forwards generally were well held by the Dundalk defence in which O'Neill and Grice were best, but the best unsuccessful effort of the match was a wonderful "header" by McCarthy, which Matter only pushed out for a corner.

Dundalk pressed early on, and in seven minutes a scrambling goal went to McArdle, who, after missing a fine chance first time, was lucky to get the ball from Harvey to beat Foley from close range. After 25 minutes the Cork left wing, Madden and O'Keeffe, which had been only moderate until then, took part in a glorious ground movement, which ended with Madden sending across in front of goal, and McCarthy sprang from behind Leathem to get the equaliser.

their halves and forwards persisted in trying to dribble past three or four defenders, and almost every time the final pass was blocked. Hoy Shelbourne even changed their tactics and swung the ball hard from wing to wing, the Brideville defence would very likely have been outpaced.

The home side were splendidly served by Webster in goal, Shield at centre-half, and Keegan and Hardy at full-back, while Coughlan did tremendous work at right half, but the forwards were seldom in the picture. In the closing minutes Wilton had only to tap the ball into an empty net to score the winning goal, but he delayed the shot and was tackled.

Nolan opened the scoring for Brideville after Coughlan had run through the defence, after twenty minutes. A free from the interval Kennedy was brought down near the goal, and Gannon scored from the penalty.

WALSH SCORES TWICE

LIMERICK . 2 ST. JAMES'S GATE 2

A draw of two goals each was a fair result to the Limerick and St. James's Gate game at Limerick yesterday. Limerick led until ten minutes from the end, when the Gate had a deserved equaliser. A goal in the opening minute by Walsh, Limerick's new centre forward, marked a lively start, and when the same player scored again a little later Limerick seemed all set for victory. St. James's Gate, however, gradually settled down, and Bermingham had their first goal almost on half-time. Towards the end of the second period Rogers headed a good goal to level the scores.

BRAY'S GOOD FIGHT

BOHEMIANS.... 3 BRAY 1

Two goals in arrears at Dalymount Park on Saturday inside five minutes of the start, and three down after 48 minutes, Bray Unknowns for the remainder of the game with Bohemians, more than held their own, but never looked like beating the amateurs, whose defence in the second half made up for a lot of timid play by the forwards. Up to the interval the home halves and forwards combined to excellent purpose, and the quick passing of the front line more or less bewildered the opposition, but on change of ends Bray Unknowns adopted hard-kicking tactics, and we saw but little more of the Bohemian game of the opening stage. The home attack was mastered, but the Bray forwards were unable to press home their advantage, and only once was Landers in serious difficulty, and then he tipped the ball over the bar for a corner. Fullen (2 mins.) and Wymes (4 mins.) scored for Bohemians in the first half. Morris (3 mins.) increased their score, and Bray's goal fell to Kearns after 8 mins.

Gold Cup.—Cliftonville 3, Glenavon 1; Distillery 1, Belfast Celtic 2; Linfield 5, Derry City 4.

Last-Minute Score Won For Wanderers

WANDERERS ... 4 CLONTARF 0

MOST of the excitement in the rather scrappy game at Lansdowne road was crowded into the last few minutes, when an all-in attack by Wanderers, in which M. Latchford was held up after crossing the line and A. B. Robertson struck an upright with a shot at goal from a penalty, ended in the last-named skimming the ball over the crossbar with a drop kick to win the match, full-time following immediately. Incidentally, C. Fox, the Wanderers' scrum-half, was off the field injured in the closing stages.

With their forwards generally much quicker on man and ball and their defensive screen giving the Wanderers' backs very little scope, the losers had more of the play, but they got little of the ball in the scrums. The attempts of the backs to get scores were mainly individual, and against excellent tackling and defensive play, in which L. Horan, R. Tyrrell, J. A. Mattson and N. Taylor were particularly prominent, they could make little eadway.

F. G. Moran ran as hard as ever without being able to get clear, and O. Palcic also made some very wholehearted efforts. M. B. Williams did not get a great deal to do, and for once in a while was dead off form with his place kicking. The forwards to show up most were J. Guiney, S. Fitzpatrick, J. Milroy and A. Finnegan.

Wanderers' backs were well held from scrum-half out, L. Horan being the only one to get very far. A. B. Robertson, who changed places with M. Latchford in the second half without much effect, balanced up M. Williams' failure with penalty kicks by missing several himself. The forwards, who were below full strength, were slower than the opposition, but fought back very well. W. McManaway was outstanding, and R. Sheriff, T. Horan and J. McGibney also prominent.

TRINITY LUCKY

TRINITY ..... 3 MONKSTOWN ... 3

The match between Trinity and Monkstown at the College Park resulted in a draw—one try all. The fact that both teams were under strong disarms criticism of a disappointing encounter. Open play and constructive work by the three-quarters on both sides were at a discount, while both sets of forwards in the set scrums and in the loose were mediocre. Trinity had the better of the scrums, but the scrum-half, Reid, failed repeatedly to get the ball away.

Monkstown were the first to score, Bergin, their full-back, following up smartly to scramble over. He failed to convert from an easy position. In the second half Monkstown tackled tenaciously, and Trinity were seldom out of their own half. In one of their sporadic attacks Rutherford whipped up a pass and dived over. O'Connor failed to add the points. Doyle picked up from a pass by Walsh and, running strongly, was almost over when he was bundled into touch. He twisted his left ankle in the effort and retired.

PALMERSTON ON TOP

PALMERSTON ... 5 U.C.D. 0

A win for the second Saturday in succession must be unprecedented in Palmerston's history, but they richly deserved their victory over U.C.D. at Clonskeagh. The winning score came on the pip of half-time, when a forward rush from half-way left Ellis in possession with a clear opening, but he hesitated and then passed inside. Five or six players handled smartly before Fraser burst over in the left corner for a try, which Flinn converted with a good kick. Palmerston had been on top from the kick-off, their forwards, grandly led by the brothers Allen and Merrey, being far too lively for the College pack, who were without their captain, Hingerty. Only twice in the opening half did College cross the half-way line. They improved in the second half, and might have won in the closing stages, but their backs, without Kevin O'Flanagan, handled poorly, and lacked penetrative power. With a little more thrust behind the scrum, Palmerston, with such an excellent lot of forwards, would be a capital side.

STRONG DEFENCES

LANSDOWNE... 5 OLD WESLEY... 3

Defences were so keen in the match at Donnybrook on Saturday that it was difficult to drive home attacks, and the decision rested on the difference between a goal from a try and an unconverted try. The contest was earnestly fought, and many keen attacks were made by each team. The meagre difference in the score fell to the more meritorious team, and was a fair valuation of merit. There was no score in the first half, nor, indeed, till the second period was well advanced, when a forward, J. Flood, got possession during a Lansdowne attack, and broke over for a try, which J. Cagney converted. With only fifteen minutes to play, Old Wesley fiercely attacked, and Carry cross-kicked, for N. McConnell to follow in and get the touch for a try, but Carry failed with the shot at goal.

FIRST-HALF SCORES

ST. MARY'S ... 8 BLACKROCK ... 3

The game at Kimmage Grove, which St. Mary's won by a goal and a try to a penalty goal, did not produce much good football, except in the opening stages of the first half, when St. Mary's had some good passing movements. In these, P. Meehan, Bergin and O'Sullivan were prominent. Norton shone as fullback, kicking a tremendous length. Troy was a clever wing forward and Meaney and Mulvey were two of the best in the pack.

Ferris, the scrum half was Blackrock's best back, and Hoffman had a couple of good runs. They have a hefty pack, which will do much better as the season advances, and when they are better trained.

After ten minutes play Bergin scored for St. Mary's after P. Meehan had made a fine run. Mulvey converting. Then Ferris kicked a penalty for Blackrock, and Bergin scored an unconverted try for St. Mary's.

BECTIVE HANDICAPPED

OLD BELVEDERE 6 BECTIVE ... 0

Old Belvedere beat Bective Rangers by 2 tries to nil at Jones's road. The Gun holders had a lively young pack, which played a big part in their success. Bective, in the first 25 minutes, lost D. O'Neill, and were under a big handicap in playing with 14 men. McNelis scored a try from a pass by Byrne in the first half, Green failing to convert. B. Quinn, in the second half, was left with an opening and scored a try, which V. Aird failed to convert.

HOCKEY LEAGUE SURPRISES

The senior hockey league opened with two entirely unexpected results on Saturday, St. James's Gate, the promoted club from the B Division, beating Y.M.C.A. 3-1; and Portrane scoring a 4-3 victory over Railway Union at Park avenue. In their efforts to secure more scoring power Y.M.C.A. had V. Sanderson at inside-right, with C. Colter centre-half. The defence, however, appears to lose confidence when Sanderson is not in his usual place, and St. James's Gate had an early lead of two goals before Sanderson resumed his normal position. There was no real recovery by Y.M.C.A. from a bad start; and, playing with great determination, St. James's Gate kept on top until the finish. Murphy scored twice and Moore once, for the winners; and C. Colter got the Y.M.C.A. goal.

Portrane, by quick following-up and keen tackling, found holes in the Railway Union defence. Caprani, Byrne, and Griffin scored three goals for Portrane in the first half, against one by Lonergan. The latter and Leopold brought the scores level in the second half, but P. Neville got the decider for Portrane near the end.

Pembroke Wanderers gave a clear indication of their strength by beating Dublin University 5-nil at Serpentine avenue. They were a far more solid side, and were better together in defence. H. and V. Raby and Sheridan got the goals.

Three Rock Rovers and Corinthians played their customary draw at London-bridge road, each side scoring twice. W. Pilkington gave Rovers the lead, but Cole and Franklin put Corinthians in front. Russell got the equaliser near the end, when Rovers were well on top.

Results:—Pembroke Wanderers 3, Dublin Univ. 0; Three Rock Rovers 2, Corinthians 2; St. James's Gate 3, Y.M.C.A. 1; Portrane 4, Railway Union 3.

Niall O'Sullivan, secretary of the company, stated that roughly over seventeen million yards of lace braid had been exported from the Ennis Mills between 25th October 1939, and 31st March, 1941, to L. Jordan, Ltd., Leicester, and Clipstone and Whitwell, of Kettering, England.

When Mr. Dixon, S.C. intimated that his case was practically closed, and asked that the defence put up their evidence on the first two charges, Mr. Costello, K.C., objected, and said that only the most formal proof had been produced by the State. It was intended by the State to prove the remaining twenty charges. By cross-examination on the first two charges he would have thought the Revenue authorities would have dealt fairly with a person they were trying to ruin, and as a matter of common justice would allow him every facility for his defence.

Mr. J. Geraghty, replying, said that these were proceedings for the recovery of a debt due to the Minister for Finance and payable to the Revenue Commissioners. Mr. Chapman should now go into the witness box and show had he any defence; otherwise they were entitled to judgment for the sum mentioned in the first two charges (£6,855).

Deciding that it would embarrass Mr. Chapman if he now had to give evidence or disclose his defence, the District Justice said he would hear evidence on the other charges before calling on the defendant.

DUBLIN CONVENTION

Mr. Sean Brennan was unanimously elected Chairman for the fourth year in succession. He had a very successful year to report. Revenue was £250 up.

Motions to reinstate suspended players were ruled out, and long discussions on the use of the Irish language on the playing fields followed. Mr. R. Hayes, B.L. (Eire Og), said compulsory Irish would cut out many members who had given life-long service to the G.A.A. Officials—Hon. secretary, R. Freeman; treasurer, T. Wolfe (C.S.); delegates on Leinster Council, S. Brennan and J. Kirwan.

HARD-HITTING BOUTS AT THE STADIUM

Saturday night tournaments seem to have little appeal for the boxing public in Dublin, and the North City Club must have been sorely disappointed at the small attendance at the Stadium, for some of the bouts were extremely good. Not often is so much hard hitting packed into one contest as occurred in the Ivan Coleman cruiser-weight affair. There were several moments when either one man or the other seemed on the verge of being knocked out; finally, in the last round, Dwan connected with a powerful right to the jaw, and with Colman helpless, the referee stopped it.

After his unexpected win over the bantam-weight champion, M. Colbert, the previous week, C. Caffrey was well beaten by G. Morahan on this occasion. Physical strength was the decisive factor here, for Morahan kept on boring in, the score with a body attack, to which Caffrey had no reply. It was an excellent performance on Morahan's part, and he is going to be a most difficult man to beat this season. Results:—

Bantam—G. Morahan (North City) beat C. Caffrey (Corinthians) on points.

Feather—P. Christy (Arbour Hill) beat J. McDonell (North City) on points.

Light—C. Ingle (Mount Street) beat R. Walsh (North City) on points; W. Gifford (Army and North City) beat J. McCullough (Athlone) on points.

Cruiser—Corporal M. Dwan (Island Bridge) beat G. Colman (North City), stopped in the sixth round.

CUSTOMS DUTIES CHARGES

ENNIS BRAID CASES

THE hearing of twenty-eight summonses against Walter Chapman, of Bindon street, Ennis, for alleged fraudulent evasion of Customs duties while acting as managing director of Ennis Braid Mills, owned by L. Jordan, Ltd., was continued before District Justice D. F. Gleeson at Ennis on Saturday last, and further adjourned until today.

Edmond O'Donnell, a clerk, employed by the Revenue Commissioners at Limerick, gave evidence that an import licence issued by the Commissioners to Ennis Braid Mills permitted the import of 7,035 gross yards of unfinished lace braid, subject to duty of ten per cent. ad valorem. There had been 49 cases of braid imported from Leicester, and these had been passed through the Customs, the duty being £

NOTICE is hereby given that the above-named Testatrix, by her will, dated the 18th December, 1940, gave the following Charitable Legacies:—

£2,000 to the Church of Ireland Widows' and Orphans' Society, together with all Testatrix's clothing, including furs.

£2,000 to the Molyneux Asylum for the Blind, Dublin.

£250 to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for the County and City of Waterford.

£3,000 to the Representative Body of the Church of Ireland (incorporated under the name of the Representative Church Body) upon trust to invest the same and apply the income thereof for the benefit of the clergy of the Church of Ireland in the County and City of Waterford.

£500 to the Governors of the Claremont Institution for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb, Dublin, known as the National Association for Promoting the Education of the Deaf and Dumb Poor of Ireland.

The above legacies are subject to a provision in the said will, that, if the payment of all legacies given by said will, together with all the duties thereon, would leave a net residue of Testatrix's "free" estate of less than £10,000 then a moiety only of the said legacies should be immediately payable, the other moiety of said legacies to outstand until the death of the life tenant of the said residue.

Testatrix died on 19th December, 1941, and Probate of her will was on 19th September, 1942, granted forth of the Waterford District Probate Registry to Major Robert John Henry Carew, of Ballinamona Park, Waterford, and Sir Robert Joshua Paul, Baronet, of Ballyglan, Waterford, the Executors therein named.

Election Rumours

Mr. de Valera said some time ago that there would be no general election next year if the political parties agreed to dispense with it. If, however, the parties failed to agree, an election would be held. Since then, none of the parties has expressed an official opinion on the subject; none has given any clear indication whether its consent to prolong the life of the present Dail Eireann will be granted or withheld. The quietness in the party camps is described by our Political Correspondent as "almost unnatural"—so unnatural, indeed, that many people wonder if it is not the prelude to an electoral storm. There are some interesting portents. On Saturday Mr. W. T. Cosgrave made a speech which reads strikingly like a bid for the farmers' favour. Fine Gael, he said, proposed to make a loan of half a million pounds per annum to the farmers, free of interest; in addition, it favoured the reduction of rates of agricultural land and a system of family allowances. Mr. Thomas Derrig, the Minister for Education, promises the expenditure of five millions after the war on education—an offer which may, or may not, have its attractions for a somewhat disillusionised electorate. Meanwhile the Labour Party continues to rejoice in its triumph at the local elections, and waxes almost arrogant. The decision may lie in Labour's hands. If Mr. Norton and his lieutenants see any convincing reason to assume that they will increase their majority at an early general election, the temptation to force a contest will be strong. We question if either of the other parties really wants it. Fianna Fail has been in office for a long stretch, and, even if it had nothing but administrative virtues to its credit, would be almost certain to suffer from the effects of electoral boredom. Fine Gael's prospects are very hard to estimate. The odds are that it would gain seats from the Government, but it stands, perhaps, an equally good chance of losing seats to Labour. In effect, the most likely guess is that a general election would result in a Dail Eireann where no party would have an absolute majority—where Fianna Fail, while retaining a superiority over any other single party, would be compelled to govern by the favour either of Fine Gael or of Labour. Is the prospect of such unstable control satisfactory to anybody?

For five years this newspaper has urged the loosening of party ties and the inauguration of a National Government. The advice has had a poor reception from the parties; yet we continue to urge it. If the necessity of a really strong Government was clear before the war, it is infinitely clearer to-day, when the business of administration has become so much more complex and delicate. A general election before the end of this war will be highly dangerous—not merely because it may result in an unstable Government, but because it is bound to revive antipathies, and to create new causes of difference, among the people. Unity is essential to this country's peace—perhaps, to its existence. Mr. de Valera, Mr. Cosgrave, Mr. Norton, with most of their colleagues, have preached the need of unity time and again; they have given their joint and individual blessing to the auxiliary services which have done so much to re-create the spirit of Irish unity—and there they have stopped. They have been content that others should set the example of unity, but they have been too proud, or too short-sighted, to set it themselves. The announcement of a National Government, as we firmly believe, would bring tens of thousands of sorely needed recruits to the auxiliary services, and would inspire fresh enthusiasm into tens of thousands who have remained rather wearily faithful. There is yet another reason why a National Government is desirable. The present Cabinet is not a strong one. It has good elements, but some of its Ministers are most clearly unsuited to the posts which they occupy; and none of Mr. de Valera's reshufflings has improved the position. New blood is badly needed—men who possess ideas, men who can make decisions, men who know when to handle, and when to be handled by, the staffs of their departments. It is probable that no single party, as constituted at present, could nominate a really good Cabinet, but there is no doubt about the ability of the three parties, acting in unison, to furnish a strong team. From every point of view, common-sense and the national interest demand that a general election shall not be held next year. They demand with equal clarity that the parties shall merge—if only for "the duration."

Second Front

Monsieur Stalin enjoys one great advantage over the leaders of the democratic countries. He has no Parliament to hamper his style, and he can say and do precisely as he chooses without fear of public criticism. In time of war British and American statesmen must be particularly careful in all their utterances, and the result is that they rarely, if ever, make a really definite statement, hedging all their remarks about with the circumlocutions of diplomatic language. When the Soviet leader was asked by an American journalist in Moscow some days ago to state his views on the problem of a second front he spoke with the utmost frankness. Anglo-American aid to Russia, he declared, had been of little effect. It certainly had been negligible in comparison with Russia's aid to the Allies; and he called upon Great Britain and the United States to "fulfil their obligations fully, and on time." What are these obligations? Nobody seems to know for certain. When Monsieur Molotov visited London and Washington last June, it was announced that full agreement had been reached in regard to the establishment of a second front in Europe before the end of the present year. This announcement was confirmed in August, when Mr. Winston Churchill made his spectacular flight to Moscow; but while, on both occasions, agreement was reported between Russia and her allies, it never was stated definitely that a second front would be established. A second front in Europe can mean only one thing: the British and Americans must invade the Continent. Are they in a position to undertake this exceptionally hazardous adventure? The raid on Dieppe during August was interpreted popularly as a kind of dress rehearsal; in fact, it was described as such almost in as many words by the British Prime Minister. Although it was on a comparatively small scale, it served to remind the British and American people that an invasion of the Continent of Europe in present circumstances is an operation that cannot be undertaken lightly. Manifestly, an invasion in force, if it should not succeed, would involve the Allies in a military disaster of the first magnitude—far greater than that which ended on the beaches of Dunkirk; and, instead of relieving the pressure on the Russians, would make their ultimate defeat almost inevitable. Nevertheless, it is not difficult to understand the Russians' impatience. For fifteen months their armies have been fighting incessantly against the full might of Germany's Wehrmacht. They have been given no respite, and their losses have been on a scale to which military history affords no parallel. The Russian troops have been sustained by the hope that the British and Americans would create a diversion in the West; and hope deferred maketh the heart sick. Monsieur Stalin now has put his cards on the table. He has called openly for Allied action as quickly as possible; but it is obvious that nothing much can be done now, since the campaigning season is nearly over. The only theatre of war in which offensive operations will be feasible during the next few months is in North Africa; but here again the difficulties, from the Anglo-American point of view, are enormous. The central Mediterranean is virtually closed to Allied shipping, with the result that all reinforcements for the Eighth Army must be sent round the Cape of Good Hope. For the Germans and Italians, North Africa is virtually a home front. In his interview with Press men in Berlin on Saturday, Marshal Rommel indicated clearly that he does not propose to remain inactive throughout the winter; and it is quite possible that he will take the initiative in a supreme effort to capture Alexandria and the Suez Canal. In the meantime, the Allied leaders are faced with Monsieur Stalin's categorical demand for early action. Much will depend upon the manner and measure of their response.

Cinema Notes

From Our Film Correspondent

This Gun for Hire (Adelphi), easily the most notable film in Dublin this week; surpasses such recent outstanding triumphs in the field of the mystery thriller as "Hot Spot" and "Saboteur." Its director, Frank Tuttle, is obviously a master of his business, since he employs the musical background in relation to the action as skilfully as did Preston Sturges in "Sullivan's Travels," and shares Hitchcock's ability to heighten suspense to a terrific climax, and preserve at the same time a strange everyday atmosphere of authenticity. "This Gun for Hire" presents to the film public a new star, Alan Ladd, who gives an unforgettable performance as a young man with a bitter, haunted face, the darkness of whose early years has made him a killer, and whose only human trait—a liking for cats—is based on his belief that "they're on their own. They don't need anybody." The moment when this young psychopath takes a gun from his brief case and shoots the unsuspecting Albert Baker has more genuine horror in it than a dozen synthetic "spine-chilling" films. The performances of all the others in this picture are well up to Ladd's high standard. Laird Cregar is magnificent as the man who hated violence, but did not hesitate to employ others to do his killing, and Veronica Lake is as good as ever.

The Strange Case of Dr. Rx (Capitol) tells how a young detective, played by Patric Knowles, who thought he was "through playing cops and robbers," but pauses on the threshold of retirement to trace a mysterious avenger who has strangled six men previously acquitted in court. The identity of the psychopathic killer, "Dr. Rx," is cleverly concealed, and you are likely to find that your suspect was just a skilfully dangled red herring. This film owes much comedy to Mantan Moreland, as the absent-minded coloured man-servant, Horatio FitzWashington, who is also very amusing in a similar rôle in the supporting picture, "Cracked Nuts." This stars Mischa Auer, as the "inventor" Kabikoff, but lately this actor seems to let the comedy slip into other hands. This time they are those of Ernie Stanton, who is really funny as the "nerve centre" of Ivan, the fake Robot, the sufferer from "blondephobia," who does not know why he chases blondes, because he has never yet caught up with one.

The Ghost of Frankenstein (Carlton)—The adventures of the monster, Frankenstein, as developed by Hollywood, have far exceeded the original dream of his literary creator, Mary Shelley. In the latest of these he returns to threaten, and finally destroy, the happiness of the son of the infamous scientist who first equipped him with a man-killing approximation of the human body and a malignant, criminal brain. The horror of this picture is rather artificial, and it is notable only for the fine acting of Sir Cedric Hardwicke as Dr. Ludwig Frankenstein. The supporting feature, "Radio Revels of 1942," is the type of picture they make in Hollywood in between making pictures.

Three Girls About Town (Grafton) get mixed up with a dead body in the bedrooms; "dead body" eventually comes to life and clears the air. "Hot Pearls," the supporting film, is an exciting story, set in pre-war Singapore, which should have topped the bill.

CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL

The Rev. V. K. Johnson, Chaplain of Queen's College, Oxford, was the preacher at Morning Service in Christ Church Cathedral yesterday. Taking his text from the 25th chapter of St. Matthew, he spoke of Christ's concern for Jerusalem rather than for Himself and the suffering awaiting Him. He further showed how Christ emphasised that God was the judge of creatures and men. The touchstone of God's judgments would be the way man had dealt with his fellow-men; for that was the test of the way they had dealt with Christ. Men, however, could not show themselves fit to sit on God's right hand by spasmodic deeds of charity, but by the trend of their lives and the motive behind their acts.

In the afternoon the Sunday School Society held their Festival Service in the Cathedral. A large gathering of boys and girls included representatives of the Boys' Brigade, the Girls' Brigade, the Brownies, the Girl Guides and the Boy Scouts. A special form of Service for the occasion was drawn up by Canon Hodges and Miss Millington. The preacher was the Rev. G. D. Hobson. The Lesson was read by the Cathedral Winstanley Scholar. The clergy in robes included the Dean, Canon Green, Rev. D. M. Carmody, Rev. R. H. Johnston, Rev. J. Murray and Rev. A. McNutt.

CRUISKEEN LAWN

By Myles na gCopaleen

WHAT would do him but to march me into the nearest public house and stand me a glass of malt?

Nothing.

Under what did I think I might as well have it?

The circumstances.

Nevertheless, assuming there were relations between us, in what state inevitably must such relations have been?

Strained.

And owing to what being beyond my control did I accept the drink?

Circumstances.

Under what archaic conditions of military (and indeed piecemeal) sale did this same party sell out my mother's property years before?

Lock stock and barrel.

But in all what plural and surrounding abstractions did I pretend to have forgotten that episode?

The circumstances.

What bound literary work did my pretended forgetfulness suit?

My book.

What pathetic articles belonging to my mother's furniture did he formerly put out on the side-walk?

The sticks.

And under what tragic things did this eviction take place?

Circumstances.

What did this eviction take under tragic circumstances?

It took place.

Whose fool was I when I decided to accept hospitality from this person?

Nobody's.

What transparent recreation could I see through?

His game.

From what person to what other person did he think he could send me?

From Billy to Jack.

With what three commonplace gentlemen did this attempt of his suggest he was confusing me?

Tom, Dick and Harry.

Where did he think he could send the fool?

Farther.

But what act did I perform in relation to him with long lengths of narrow fabric?

I had him taped.

What thing belonging to him did I have?

His measure.

Where precisely did I have him?

Precisely where I wanted him.

What abundant, essential, firm and durable thing did I take from under his feet?

The ground

What useful articles of furniture did I invert?

The tables.

What abstract thing did I inform him he was beneath?

Contempt.

In what peregrination of at least twelve hours' duration would you not meet a more despicable specimen?

A day's walk.

What visceral mess did I inform him he was not fit to bring to what Arctic mammal?

Guts to a bear.

What furthermore did I inform him he was not worth?

Hitting.

What temporal interval did I inform him he was not worth hitting?

My while.

What sort of respect for me did this veiled threat of violence induce in him?

A healthy.

When departing, what obscure thing belonging to him was fallen?

His crest.

DINNER TO MR. R. F. TOWNLEY

The directors of the Irish Times and representatives from all departments in the office, numbering about fifty, attended a complimentary dinner in the Shelbourne Hotel on Saturday night to Mr. Robert F. Townley, the cashier, on the occasion of his retirement. Mr. Townley, who joined the staff of the Irish Times in 1884, has been cashier for the past nineteen years. During that time he was a familiar figure in the office, and was extremely popular with everybody.

Mr. R. M. Smyllie, Editor, presided, and Mr. Loftus P. Arnott, Chairman; Sir Lauriston J. Arnott, Managing Director; Mr. J. J. Simington and Mr. Frank A. Lowe, directors, were also present.

The health of Mr. Townley was proposed by Mr. W. Redmond, of the composing staff, supported by Sir Lauriston Arnott. Mr. William Stewart, Mr. J. J. Simington, Mr. G. J. C. Tynan O'Mahony, Dr. James Ashe, Mr. W. Morrison Milne, Mr. J. T. O'Dockery (Manager) and Mr. F. A. Lowe also spoke to the toast.

The musical programme was contributed to by Dr. Arthur Duff, Mr. Harry Lino, Dr. Ashe, Mr. C. Kearney, Mr. G. H. Burrows, Mr. T. Butterly and Mr. T. D. Atkinson.

A GREAT TOMATO

Mr. Michael Kennedy, of Mount Carmel, 27 Trimleston avenue, Booterstown, Co. Dublin, has grown a tomato of what must be a record weight.

It weighs 19½ozs., and was grown out-of-doors. From the same plant he obtained a 17oz. specimen, and is keeping his eye on several others, not yet ripe, which seem to be just as ambitious.

Mr. Kennedy, a keen amateur gardener, has been growing tomatoes for four years, but this is the first time that he has tried this particular species, an American brand, the fruit from which is always larger than that from other tomato plants.

LATE DUKE OF KENT

The Duchess of Kent, her sister, Princess Olga, and King George of Greece attended a Requiem Mass for the Duke of Kent at the Greek Orthodox Church in London yesterday. Members of the Diplomatic Corps of the Allied Governments were also present. The Service was conducted in the old Greek Byzantine language by Dr. Germanos, Archbishop of Thyateira. The altar was draped with the Greek and British flags.

B.B.C. ORCHESTRA

LIEUT. M. BOWLES AS CONDUCTOR

It was a flattering and at the same time highly deserved compliment on the part of the B.B.C. authorities to invite Lieutenant Michael Bowles, of the Irish Army, and Acting Musical Director of Radio Eireann Orchestra, to conduct the B.B.C. Orchestra at its concert broadcast on Saturday afternoon last. The audiences who attended Lieut. Bowles's performance at the series of symphony concerts in the Mansion House last season will recall how well he directed his players. His work on Saturday showed the same care and thoroughness. That he is a close student and a warm lover of Beethoven was evident from the intimate manner in which he handled the master's works in the first half of the concert. This was notably so in the first movement of the First Symphony, where interest and variety were well maintained, despite the undoubted lengthy repetition. The Minuet was beautifully painted, and both in this movement and in the Romance in F (soloist, Paul Beard) there was exquisite playing.

In the second half of the programme the high light was a set of pieces (Prelude, Scherzo and Impromtu) by Lieut. Bowles, which not only had a strong Irish flavour, but showed that the composer has a very happy gift of composition.

DUBLIN ORDINATIONS

The Most Rev. Dr. McQuaid, Archbishop of Dublin, ordained the following students at Holy Cross College, Clonliffe, yesterday:—

Diaconate.—Holy Cross College, Clonliffe—The Rev. E. O'Doherty, the Rev. C. Dowd, the Rev. L. O'Donoghue, the Rev. L. Shanahan, the Rev. P. Rice, the Rev. T. Callan, the Rev. M. Browne. All Hallows—The Rev. M. Murphy, the Rev. M. Marren, the Rev. C. Daly, the Rev. M. Hardy. St. Mary's, Morehampton road—The Rev. K. McArdle, O.D.C.; the Rev. A. Kelleher, O.D.C.; the Rev. G. Winters, O.D.C.; the Rev. D. Burke, O.D.C.; the Rev. C. Wren, O.D.C. St. Joseph's, Blackrock—The Rev. H. Murnaghan, C.M.; the Rev. D. Sweeney, C.M.; the Rev. M. O'Neill, C.M.; the Rev. J. Roughan, C.M.; the Rev. C. Curtin, C.M.; the Rev. J. Murphy, C.M.; the Rev. D. McMorrow, C.M.; the Rev. F. Cleere, C.M.

CHRISTMAS BOOKS

Christmas books for children this year will contain as many coloured illustrations as ever, and most of the old favourites will appear on the bookshops' shelves.

A member of a Dublin firm of booksellers told the Irish Times yesterday that it was surprising that the output of books of all kinds was so good. Christmas supplies are, of course, restricted, and some well-known "annuals" have been stopped altogether; but, on the whole, children will have plenty of choice in their Christmas reading.

The only apparent difference in the new books is the war-economy paper on which they are printed and the limp covers used in some of them. Another difference—which will affect only the giver of gifts—is the price, which will be higher.

Novels are appearing with surprising regularity, and the brightly-coloured dust-covers, with their variety of designs, make a gay display in booksellers' windows. New works of fiction appear shorter than they were, but this is due only to the economy paper, which is much thinner than the pre-war paper, and to the fact that narrower margins and smaller print are used to comply with war-time standards.

POSTAL PLAYERS

Commencing this evening, the Dublin Postal Repertory Company will present T. C. Murray's play, "Autumn Fire," at the Peacock Theatre. The cast includes Dorothy Hutchinson, A. P. Bailey, Una O'Brien, Breda Nolan, P. J. Cahill, M. P. Nolan, Liam O'Neill, and Noreen Tuite. As a curtain-raiser to "Autumn Fire" there will be a dramatic little piece with a surprising ending, "Blind Man's Bluff," by F. Carmichael
